A Disparch states that the manning to President Andrew Johnson was unveiled Tuesday in the presence of 3,000 spectators. Hon. George W. Jones, an infimalpolitical friend of Johnson's of forty years standing and member of Congress before the war, was introduced by the Hon, John C. Burch, of the Nashville American, and delivered an elaborate address. The monament is very handsome, costing $5,000; and is creeted at the expense of the family.

THE Potter committee is still hard work uncarthing the Louisiana frauds. Two days of rigid cross-examination has failed to affect Anderson's testimony in any important particular, and it is given out that the Democrats will be able to corroborate it by unimpeachable witnesses. Great alarm, consequently, continues to be felt by these who took a hand in manipulating the returns, either as visiting statesmen or members of the returning

THE Massac Journal, a strong light of Radicalism, is wrought up to an intense pitch of enthusiasm. It says:

ROUMANIA RESOLVED TO FIGHT. LONDON, June 5 .- Underneath the threat of Roomania not to assent to the provisions of the congress if Bessarabia be taken from her, this is understood to be a settled reso lution. The Roumanian government has caused Lord Salisbury to be informed that if the congress sanctions those provisions of the San Stefano treaty which deprived Roumania of her rights and prejudice her in terests she would certainly fight. She plants herself on the public law of Europe. She would not admit that Russia and Turkey should arrogate to themselves the right to settle the destinies of Roumania. M. Cogalniceano, the Bulgarian foreign minister, is now convinced, or at least he says that England and Russin have agreed to sacrifice Roumania. The latter. this. says, will submitted to the Roumanians. They believe they have been badly treated by Russia. They began by royally aiding her, having received from her a promise that her national rights and territorial in tegrity should be maintained. They have been painfully deceived. They gave their territory as a base for Russian military or erations. They lent their soldiers to fight with the armies of the ezar. They have made great sacrifices of blood and money and now they are to be worse off than before They are to see the delta of the Danube sich belongs to them, cut off from the Ottoman empire, indeed, and exchanged against their will, for Bessarabia, that portion of their soil which alone can give them an effectual domination over the mouth of the river.
